BENTONVILLE — The students of the NWACC Students in Free Enterprise will host their second annual Year Beginning Rally today. Mike

The rally is a recruiting tool for the team.

The rally will begin at 11 a. m. and will last about 30 minutes in White Auditorium.

Retired Wal-Mart executive Jack Shewmaker will make an appearance to speak to students about the opportunities SIFE provides and to encourage students to join SIFE.

The NWACC SIFE team works in the community, teaching the principles of free enterprise.

The team works with community members that may need to learn computer basics or how to interview for a job.

They will also work with small businesses to help them reach their potential.

SIFE is a worldwide college organization whose mission is to change the world. All teams work toward the same mission.

At the end of each school year teams compete against each other to showcase to a panel of judges the projects they worked on during the year.

Teams are judged on the impact they made in their community and how well they created economic opportunities for others through educating them about a specific topic.

The NWACC team won the regional competition and went on to place fifth in the nation among two year schools.

Students will give away pizza, sodas, goodie bags and door prizes at the rally. Door prizes include restaurant gift certificates, NBA tickets and tickets to the Northwest Arkansas Business Women's Conference.
